British Warships, U. S. Bombers At Trieste

YUGOSLAVS PUT IRON RULE ON ITALIAN PORT

Allies Await Replies To Protest Notes Sent To Marshal Tito
BALKAN LEAGUE PLANNED
Rumors State Tito Hoping To Set Up Federation Of Balkan States

By United Press
British cruisers and destroyers have anchored in the harbor of Trieste under a canopy of American heavy bombers, a dispatch from the disputed port said today. United Press correspondent James Roper reported from Trieste that the British warships arrived Tuesday. He said Sherman tanks, manned by alert New Zealanders, were parading the streets of the dock area under British control. With the permission of Marshal Tito, the British had begun unloading supplies at Trieste for the Allied armies of occupation in Austria.

The disclosure came while Great Britain and the United States awaited replies to their notes to Marshal Tito protesting administration of the port by his Yugoslav forces. The Allied position was that an Allied military government should administer Trieste as it does all other former Italian territory, and that any disputes between Italy and Yugoslavia over ownership of the port must wait. The notes were described here as firm, although it was said they did not contain any ultimatum.

The extent to which the Yugoslavs have seized control of Trieste was disclosed in a dispatch from the port itself by Correspondent Roper. He reported the Yugoslavs have installed their own picked prefect, renamed a street Corso Tito, substituted Yugoslav time for Italian time, and begun conscripting men from 15 to 50 for the Yugoslav army. An Istanbul dispatch said rumors were circulating in diplomatic circles in Balkan capitals that Tito is planning a league of Balkan states.

The unverified reports said Tito envisioned a league of greater Yugoslavia, including Flume, Trieste, and Salonica, with Rumania, Bulgaria, and Albania. It was said the organization would have Russian backing.

Italian Premier Ivanoe Bonomi stated Italy's position on Trieste at a press conference in Rome last night when he said his country would be glad to discuss the problem with Yugoslavia "when the passions of war have passed."

Bonomi said he was confident (Continued on Page Two)

Big Three Meeting Up To Stalin

Truman, Churchill Await Word From Russia On Early Session

WASHINGTON, May 16—Russian Premier Josef Stalin today held the answer to one of the most urgent problems on the world political front:

"When will we (big) three meet again?" and where?

President Truman and Prime Minister Winston Churchill both have proclaimed within the last 24 hours their desire for an early meeting of the leaders of the three major fighting allies.

Nothing, however, has been heard publicly from Stalin. It was an accepted fact here and in London that a meeting of the big three would take place by mid-Summer. But as in the case of the previous big three sessions at Tehran and Yalta it appeared that Stalin held the final answer on the actual time and place.

Consistently throughout the war the Soviet leader has been loath to leave his native soil even to confer with his two ranking contemporaries.

The next meeting of the big three will be held under different circumstances from others when the three nations were united in war against Germany. Soviet Russia maintains neutrality in the Anglo-American conflict with Japan. (Continued on Page Two)

IZVESTIA SAYS REDS REGARDED AS LIBERATORS

MOSCOW, May 16—The official newspaper Izvestia today praised the achievement of the United States and Britain in the European war but contended that "the whole world sees its liberator in our people."

Written by Ilya Ehrenbourg, best known Russian war correspondent, the article emphasized Russia's predominant role in the defeat of Germany and in the maintenance of peace.

"Our people marched at the head of the others and therein lies the guaranty that the victory will not remain a mere military event but that in Europe the foundations of freedom and brotherhood will be victorious," Ehrenbourg wrote.

His article paid tribute to the fighting qualities of British and American soldiers and the continued resistance of the French after the 1940 capitulation, asserting that "our gallant allies . . . have a right to their seats at the table of the conquerors."

Ehrenbourg asserted, however, that the first crack in the German army was forced by Russian troops at Stalingrad.

"When we saw invaders on our soil we were all alone," he said. "At that time the British were on their island. America had not entered the war. France was down-trodden."

HIMMLER HAS CHANGED MIND ABOUT DYING

By United Press
Mutual Network Correspondent Birger Jacobsen reported today that Heinrich Himmler, former Nazi Gestapo chief who now is hiding in fear of his life, boasted to a Stockholm Jewish businessman weeks ago that he was ready to accept responsibility and death for the war crimes charged to Germany.

"I do not seek an alibi—I am not afraid to die," Himmler was quoted as telling Norbert Masur, Stockholm member of the world Jewish congress, shortly before the fall of Berlin.

Masur, who visited Himmler in an effort to arrange for the release of thousands of women prisoners held by the Nazis, said the Gestapo chief in the course of a two and one-half hour conversation "did not deny responsibility" for the atrocities unearthed at Buchenwald and other Nazi prison camps.

FOOCHOW DRIVE OPENS GATE TO CHINA COAST

WITH CHINESE TROOPS entering Fochow (1) on the China Coast, and the Japs reported driven from Sinchang (2), military experts see the beginning of a campaign to clear an area considered the most likely landing place for possible future invasion. The Chinese successes are seen tying in with the battle for Okinawa (shown in inset) commanding the approach, where Naha (A) may fall at any moment. (International)

ALLIED MISSION AT FLENSBURG

Doenitz Government Taken Over By Commission From Supreme Headquarters

PARIS, May 16—An official Allied source revealed today that a supreme headquarters mission has taken over control of the Doenitz government and German high command at Flensburg.

Final disposition of the government and Oberkommand was awaiting the decision of still higher quarters, possibly involving more than one nation, the source said. From Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters at Reims, the source said.

Thus Army hands are tied from taking some of the drastic steps being demanded in the United States and Britain, the Reims informant said.

Other authoritative quarters already have said that the Doenitz regime has no standing as a government, but to what extent its elements may be retained by the Allies as an assisting administrative body remained to be answered.

The Reims source said the task of reorganizing from military operations to a vast, coordinated venture in civilian administration in any event could not be accomplished "in a day."

He said the Allied mission already had seized control of radio Flensburg, formerly voice of the (Continued on Page Two)

FAMILIES OF NAVY OFFICERS TO JOIN MEN

WASHINGTON, May 16—Families of commissioned and non-commissioned Navy officers stationed at Caribbean bases are getting ready to join their husbands and fathers as the Navy makes its first move to unite families with men overseas.

It was emphasized that this applies only to the Caribbean so far. A Navy department spokesman said today that families may go as soon as permission is cleared in each case. Navy dependents are allowed to travel on Army and Navy vessels at government expense.

Only families of commissioned officers, chief petty officers and petty officers first and second class are being allowed to leave the continent. The order stipulates families will be given quarters on Navy bases if available. Those forced to live in island communities will be granted extra pay to cover commutation to the base.

In addition to the U. S. owned territories of Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, families may join men stationed on British, Dutch and French owned islands and in Cuba, the Navy spokesman revealed.

Since the housing situation in the vicinity of Pearl Harbor is already strained official sources predicted it will be some time before servicemen can take their families to Hawaii.

Peace Conference Aims At June 1 Adjournment; Regional Dispute Ends

SAN FRANCISCO, May 16—The United Nations conference again set its sights today on June 1 as a possible adjournment deadline. The way was cleared somewhat by a three-point compromise formula solving a 10-day dispute over regional security systems.

The formula for linking such groups as the inter-American system with the proposed world organization, was announced by Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, Jr.

Mexican Foreign Minister Ezequiel Padilla immediately welcomed the plan in behalf of the 20 Latin American nations as one that would strengthen the inter-American system.

The Latin American nations agreed to accept the paramount authority of the world organization in enforcement action in return for specific recognition of the inherent right of individual or collective self defense.

In addition, the Latin Americans received the promise of the United States to call another inter-American conference soon for negotiating a permanent hemisphere collective security treaty to supersede the wartime "Act of Chapultepec" which was signed at Mexico City in March.

The general reaction was that (Continued on Page Two)

2,500 GERMANS TO BE ASSIGNED TO OHIO FARMS

WASHINGTON, May 16—The War Food Administration said today that 2,500 German prisoners of war were allotted to the Fifth Service command, with headquarters at Columbus, O., for farm work.

The WFA said that the prisoners will be available as agricultural laborers through July 15, when the total will be reduced to 2,200. The type of work the prisoners are assigned to do this summer will be decided by the Ohio state agricultural extension service director, WFA said.

Although the Army plans to return the prisoners to Germany within a reasonable time, approximately 85,000 will be available nationally during part of the summer. However, the WFA said it will request that an additional number be assigned to farm work during the harvest season.

Messerschmidt Is Reported Living Life Of Luxury In British Capital

LONDON, May 16—British officials refused to comment today on charges that Willi Messerschmidt, captured German aircraft designer, was living a life of luxury in the capital his planes helped to wreck.

The London Daily Mirror said Messerschmidt, though officially a prisoner, was living in an expensive apartment in London and had a servant, an occasional free seat at a theatre and the use of an automobile when he desired it.

Several other unidentified captured Nazi bigwigs were "confined" in the same building, a luxury

BURGLARS ENTER FIVE SCHOOLS

Sheriff, Police Hunt For Clues; Amount Of Loot Still Undetermined

City and county police officers were investigating Wednesday the burglarizing of Circleville high school and four county schools in Williamsport, New Holland, Ashville and Muhlenberg townships. The schools, police reported, were broken into, in all probability, by the same group.

Police also believe that the burglaries took place after the rain at about 11:30 p. m. Tuesday. Mud traces and fingerprints indicated that it probably happened during or after the heavy rain storm about midnight.

The sheriff's department suspects that the same gang who broke into schools in Clinton, Highland, Greene and Fayette counties probably committed the burglaries in Pickaway county. The burglars took $600 from Highland county schools.

The amount of money and other property taken from the schools burglarized Tuesday evening has not been established. Police and sheriff's officers are still compiling evidence.

It was believed that the schools were broken into at this time because the criminals suspect with school closing activities now being scheduled there is more money to be kept in the school buildings.

GERMANS QUIT LAND FIGHTING; 50 SUBS TAKEN

U-Boats Which Remain Below Surface Are Outlawed, British Report

TITO ANNOUNCES VICTORY

Yugoslavs Kill 5,000 Nazis And Capture 30,000 In Three-Day Battle

LONDON, May 16—All German resistance on land had ceased today—one week after the Reich's capitulation—and the number of U-boats surrendering to the Allies was increasing almost hourly.

Nearly 50 German submarines already had put into Allied ports on both sides of the Atlantic or had surrendered at sea to Allied warships.

A London Evening News Dispatch said U-boats which still remain below the surface have been outlawed. Orders have been issued to Allied warships to sink any submerged submarines, the dispatch said.

The last German ground resistance in Europe was crushed by the Yugoslav army. Marshal Tito announced that his third army had surrounded and compelled German and pro-Nazi Ustaichi forces in the upper Drava valley to capitulate after a violent three-day battle.

More than 5,000 enemy troops were killed and 30,000 including "many well-known (Ustaichi) criminals," captured, Tito said. Some 8,000 civilians were liberated.

Tito said the battle had increased the third army's bag of prisoners in the past fortnight to 100,000.

Elsewhere in Yugoslavia, he said, his forces disarmed another 15,000 enemy troops, including 20 generals. More than 1,000 motor vehicles and 20 tanks were seized.

SPECIFIC ZONES OF OCCUPATION STILL UNSETTLED

LONDON, May 16—The major Allied powers have reached general agreement on military control of Germany, but the question of specific occupation zones has not yet been settled, Prime Minister Churchill and his government spokesmen told commons today.

Churchill, replying to questions on the occupation of the Reich, said Britain's policy dovetails with the overall plans announced by U. S. Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson on May 11 for American participation in the military control by the United States, Britain, France and Russia.

"These plans (Stimson's) are based on an agreement already reached between the Allied governments for the control of Germany," he said.

Churchill and members of his war cabinet conferred separately with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery on the military control question before going to the house.

FARM MACHINES URGED BY JONES

Production Would Increase Food Harvest This Year, WFA Head States

WASHINGTON, May 16—War Food Administrator Marvin Jones said today that if farm machinery is immediately given an "urgency" rating production can be stepped up in time to increase the 1945 food harvest materially.

"The need is as great and as urgent as any of the direct military programs during the severe stages of the European war," Jones told reporters.

Jones noted that manufacturers have been assured enough steel and other materials to make the machinery.

But, he pointed out, it is necessary to give plants the manpower and critical parts to get the machinery out of the factories and to farms in time for this season's use.

Jones said he has asked the War Production Board repeatedly that farm implement manufacturers be placed on a par with makers of other war-essential equipment. The request was renewed May 10.

If farmers are told now—in the midst of the planting season—that machinery will be available for cultivating and harvesting crops, they (Continued on Page Two)

LESS ESSENTIAL CIVILIAN ITEMS TO BE RELEASED

WASHINGTON, May 16—The War Production Board revoked an order which practically halted use of iron and steel in manufacture of so-called less essential civilian items.

This does not mean, however, that large supplies of the metals will be available immediately for production of all manner of gadgets. That won't be true for a long time.

In revoking the order WPB retained controls on the use of stainless steel.

WPB also lifted certain bans on production and delivery of many items the future output of which will continue to hinge upon material availability. The items include:

Printing trades machinery, golf clubs, juke boxes, pinball machines, slot machines, automatic photographic machines, and mechanical, hydraulic, air and electric jacks.

The revocations, however, do not mean that customers will be able to go to producers tomorrow, next week, or even next month and get all they want of the commodities involved.

HEAVY FIGHTING ON MINDANAO ISLAND GOES ON

Official Reports Awaited On Latest Aerial Raids On Jap Homeland

357 PLANES WRECKED

Communique Lists Serious Damage Inflicted On Island Bases

BULLETIN
By United Press
A British broadcast recorded by the United Press in New York quoted an unconfirmed and uncredited report today as saying the Americans had captured Naha, capital of Okinawa.

By United Press
Bloody, no-quarter battles raged on southern Okinawa and on Mindanao in the Philippines today as official reports were awaited from the latest aerial assaults on the Japanese homeland.

Preliminary reports indicated that 19 Japanese suicide plane bases had been neutralized by swarms of American carrier planes which blasted the home islands of Kyushu and Shikoku Saturday night and Sunday.

The raiders destroyed 284 and possibly 357 Japanese planes and wrecked airfield installations on the two islands, a Pacific fleet communique said.

Official reconnaissance reports still were awaited from Monday's record superfortress raid which was believed to have left one-quarter of Nagoya in ruins.

Heavy Marines battled through mortar and shell fire within 1,000 yards of the center of Naha. Bloody fighting was progressing from house to house. Marine vanguards had crossed the Asato river which bisects the city but murderous enemy fire still cut down reinforcements crossing the river.

To the northeast infantry troops laid siege to the inland citadel of Shuri after capturing Chocolate Hill, main enemy stronghold guarding the city, at bayonet point. Marines of the first division fought toward Shuri from the northeast.

At the east end of the five mile line across Okinawa, other troops pressed toward Yonabaru after beating off an enemy counter-attack in the vicinity of recently captured Conical Hill.

A new Japanese attempt, the second within a week, to land troops behind the American lines near Machinato airfield was repulsed by naval gunfire.

The assaults on the suicide-plane bases reduced the enemy air attacks on American forces on Okinawa. Only 35 enemy planes reached the island on the first day of the raids and since then only a few have appeared.

The island of Mindanao was 90 per cent liberated but the mopping up brought some of the deadliest fighting of the Philippine campaign.

American troops slugged it out with the Japanese with bayonets, rifle butts and even fists in the high grass fields between the Talomo and Davao river west of Davao city. In some cases doughboys swung their helmets to bludgeon Japanese to death.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced that 90 per cent of the (Continued on Page Two)

LT. DON HENRY LIBERATED FROM NAZI POW CAMP

Lt. Donald W. Henry has been freed from a German prison camp, his wife learned Wednesday.

Mrs. Henry, who lives at 163 Montclair avenue, received a telegram which stated: "Happy anniversary. Hope to see you soon. All my love, Don."

It was the first word she had received since December.

Lt. Henry has been a prisoner since July, 1944, when he was forced down in Germany.

Next Tuesday will be the second wedding anniversary of Lt. and Mrs. Henry. He is the son of J. Wray Henry, Circleville high school principal, and Mrs. Henry.

YUGOSLAVS PUT IRON RULE ON ITALIAN PORT

any differences between Italy and Yugoslavia could be ironed out. But he added, "It is necessary that the problem be not prejudiced by the use of force we condemn all aggressor nationalisms, no matter where they come from, what flag they are flying, and no matter what intentions are behind them."

The Italian premier appealed for Russian support of Italy's position, noting that the Soviet had subscribed to the Atlantic charter. Bern radio reported the Bonomi government might resign as a result of the "reversing" Trieste affair, but there was no hint of that in dispatches from Rome.

Radio Rome charged the Yugoslav liberation committee had deported all males between 18 and 50 from the city of Gorizia into the interior of Slovenia. Gorizia, like Trieste, is in Venezia Giulia province, the territory under dispute.

The Italian broadcast also said the Yugoslavs had withdrawn Italian currency from Gorizia and replaced it with Yugoslav dinars.

The British radio reported a proclamation had been issued in Carinthia, southernmost province of Austria which Yugoslavia also covets, saying "the entire province of Carinthia will be incorporated into greater Yugoslavia." The broadcast said the proclamation was issued in Tito's name.

According to the London broadcast, the proclamation also announced the setting up for a Yugoslav military administration in Klagenfurt, capital of Carinthia, which was occupied by British troops.

MEMORIAL HELD AT LOGAN ELM GRANGE MEETING

A Memorial service in memory of the 26 deceased members of Logan Elm Grange was held at the Pickaway school, Tuesday evening. Flowers were placed on the altar, and Mrs. Charles A. Dresbach and Mrs. John Miller, accompanied by Miss Ruth McKenzie sang "Abide With Me."

Mrs. John Gehres read "Crossing The Bar" and a memorial address was given by the Rev. S. C. Elisea, chaplain.

Mrs. Frank Groves was awarded first prize in the housewife contest, Mrs. John Miller, second, Mrs. Clarence Maxson, third and Mrs. F. A. K. Blair, fourth. Mrs. F. K. Blair acted as judge.

Frank Groves, master, was in the chair for the business meeting at which time a committee to place memorial flags on graves of deceased members was appointed. Plans for entertaining Pomona Grange on Saturday, May 26, were made.

There were 35 present and refreshments were served by Mrs. John Wolford and her committee.

RACE BILL KILLED

COLUMBUS, May 16—The Senate commerce and labor committee today killed a bill which would substitute a state racing commissioner and five-member advisory board for the present four-member state racing commission.

ADMINISTRATION BACKED

WASHINGTON, May 16—The administration today won the first round of its fight for more liberal tariff making powers. The house ways and means committee approved a reciprocal trade bill carrying additional authority to reduce import duties.

PARK TICKETS GO ON SALE; GIRLS BOOKED

Tickets for the Memorial Day softball games to be played in Ted Lewis park went on sale Wednesday.

Chairman William Hamilton announced that members of the park commission, softball league officials and players and others would have tickets for sale. They are to be sold at $1 up.

First ticket was purchased by Frank Lynch, one of the leading sports boosters in the community. Mrs. Louis Mehs bought five tickets in another pre-campaign sale.

Money from the sale of tickets will be used to finish paying for the shelter house now being constructed in the park and the lights at the softball field which were installed recently.

Two ball games will be played the evening of May 30. In the first game a picked team from the Circleville league will meet an outstanding team from Columbus or vicinity. In the second two Columbus girls' teams will meet. The park commission announced Wednesday that one of the teams would be the strong J and K Shoes team which has Pauline Sells and Alice Feyh, two of the outstanding pitchers in Columbus on its roster.

15 POLYGAMISTS BEGIN LONG PRISON SENTENCES

SALT LAKE CITY, May 16—Fifteen male polygamists, boasting a combined total of 55 wives and 287 children, today began prison terms ranging from one to five years.

They filed through the gates of Utah state prison late yesterday after Third District Court Judge J. Allen Crockett denied a writ of habeas corpus from sentences imposed May 20, 1944. Judge Crockett's ruling, which he termed the final recourse under law, brought to an end the defendants' 14-month-long appeal from conviction on charges of illegal cohabitation.

"Most of the day, Willi sits writing and in the evenings sometimes an Army car takes him to look over London's damage," the Daily Mirror said. "He was told in Germany that the town was almost entirely in ruins."

"All his guards are armed with pistols and anyone entering must show a pass. . . . British taxpayers pay for Willi's theatre seat, his rent and his gasoline."

Yesterday, the Daily Mirror said, a half-ton safe was delivered to the apartment "so Willi could keep his papers tidy."

The newspaper added that only the commandant of what British Tommies call "Regent's Park Hotel Splendid" knew the identity of the other Nazis enjoying life in the apartment block.

In an editorial, the Daily Mirror suggested that the war office extend its announced investigation of reports British soldiers have been ordered to salute German officers on other matters.

"These might include, it said, 'the provision of luxury quarters for enemy officers and the supply of batmen to clean their boots.'"

"Indeed, the whole question of treatment of prisoners and fraternization might be reviewed and a few wholesome decisions taken," the Daily Mirror said.

"How in the name of common sense can you ask men to fight these aggressors and finally thrust them, then order them to pay tribute to the swine with a salute? . . . Wars will never cease so long as this romantic formalism persists."

pan, and is therefore not a fighting ally of the remaining "big two."

The first meeting of the big three took place in January, 1943, at Tehran, Iran, near the Russian border. The second meeting came this past February at Yalta, Russia, which led to the now historic Crimea declaration.

Relations between the leaders of the three nations had developed into a personal plane but when President Roosevelt died in April a stranger, Mr. Truman, suddenly entered the picture.

Neither Churchill nor Stalin has met Mr. Truman. But since he succeeded to office a vast number of big three problems has accumulated, particularly the Polish question which has produced repeated moments of international anxiety and the question of trusteeships for dependent areas.

Mr. Truman told his news conference yesterday he was very hopeful of a meeting soon with Churchill and Stalin so that he and his two ranking world colleagues could get together face-to-face around a table and discuss their problems.

When someone wanted to know whether the French leader, Gen. Charles De Gaulle, would participate in such a meeting the President was emphatic in saying it would be strictly a big three conference.

Since the outset of big three conferences, repeated efforts have been made to persuade Stalin to come some distance from his native soil. One proposal—later replaced by the meeting at Tehran—was to have a conference at Fairbanks, Alaska. This was vetoed. Another time a tentative site was selected in Scotland. Now the British are more anxious than ever to have the meeting in their capital, London.

Peace Conference Aims At June 1 Adjournment; Regional Dispute Ends

the gravest crisis of this conference had been liquidated. The delegates immediately turned to other unsolved problems—international trusteeships, a world court statute, and the campaign of little nations to strengthen the general assembly.

The U. S. formula on the regional issue will be presented today to a special subcommittee which will pass it on immediately to the full committee for almost certain and immediate approval.

The general principles for solving the regional dispute have been agreed upon since last Saturday. But the wording of them had stumped the best minds here for three days. The result is a three-point formula requiring two specific amendments to the Dumbarton Oaks proposals. The three points are:

1. Recognition of the paramount authority of the world organization in all enforcement action. (This is already in the Dumbarton Oaks plan in a section which provides that no enforcement action by regional agencies shall be taken without authorization by the world security council.)

2. Recognition that the inherent right of self defense—individual or collective—must remain unimpaired in case the world security council does not maintain peace and an armed attack against a member state occurs. (This will require an amendment to the so-called "enforcement action" section of Dumbarton Oaks. The amendment will call for immediate reports to the security council when this right of self defense is exercised.)

3. Agreement that regional agencies will be looked upon as important because of their ability to settle disputes by peaceful methods in their early stages. (This is implied in the Dumbarton Oaks plan but another amendment will be made to the so-called "peaceful settlement" section making it explicit.)

The new formula was far from the original demands of the Latin American countries which had sought to give the inter-American system complete autonomy from the world organization. The issue even brought a split among American officials here.

The climax came yesterday when Stettinius emphatically told a press conference that the United States had come here to help create a "world organization" and that nothing—not even the much-cherished inter-American system—was going to interfere with the success or prestige of such a world organization.

Events moved quickly after that. Stettinius lunched with the French foreign minister, conferred with the nine leading Latin Americans, and with the big five representatives—all within three hours. Two hours later he and Padilla were announcing a settlement, while a meeting of all the 20 Latin American nations received the final text with general approval.

WASHINGTON, May 16—Whether German general staff officers are tried and punished as war criminals will be determined by the four Allied prosecuting attorneys, the White House said today.

The question was raised yesterday at President Truman's news conference. The President, however, referred it to Supreme Court Justice Robert H. Jackson, who will represent the United States in prosecution of war criminals before an international tribunal to be set up later.

Jackson, meanwhile, has chosen three top legal experts to aid him in preparation and presentation of this country's case against leading axis criminals.

The announcement about German general staff officers was made by White House Press Secretary Charles C. Ross.

"In the opinion of our government," Ross told reporters, "the determination of who are the top criminals to be tried . . . should be left to the prosecuting lawyers."

REPORTS SAY VINSON NAMED 'CZAR' OF FOOD

WASHINGTON, May 16—Congressional sources said today that President Truman had made War Mobilizer Fred M. Vinson virtual food "czar" and had directed him to work out a program designed to end charges of administration bungling in the meat situation.

These sources said Vinson would order payment of direct subsidies to cattle feeders and an increase in subsidies for packers in a drastic effort to alleviate the meat shortage.

The Vinson program reportedly will be announced today or tomorrow. Besides subsidy revisions it is said to include a pledge that any change in livestock ceiling prices or subsidy payments will be announced six months in advance.

Demands for these three moves—plus requests for a food czar—have been voiced on Capitol Hill with increasing frequency and ire in the last two months.

CHILLICOTHEAN HEADS OSU MOTHERS GROUP

COLUMBUS, May 16—The Ohio State university Mothers association announced today that Mrs. Maurice Morrison of Chillicothe, O., was elected president at a recent election.

Other officers of the state-wide group included Mrs. F. C. Clay of Newark, O., vice president; Mrs. Guy D. Bailey, of Springfield, O., secretary; and Mrs. Ralph S. Trigg of Youngstown, O., emergency fund chairman.

MAY END CONTRACTS
COLUMBUS, May 16—The state supreme court held today that local school boards may terminate women teachers' contracts if they marry.

Mrs. Thelma Shilman, Red Cross home service woman, Cleveland was a guest of the local chapter, Wednesday.

ALLIED MISSION AT FLENSBURG

Doenitz government, to prevent a recurrence of an unauthorized broadcast Sunday which slanted news items to suggest a conflict between Russia and the western Allies.

The mission found the Obercommand of the Wehrmacht, which directed the over-all ground, air and naval operations of Germany, individual ground forces and naval commands, and a number of Reichsministries at Flensburg, which lies just south of the Danish border.

All departments were taken over on a "seize and freeze" basis pending a decision on what elements if any would be retained during Allied occupation.

Little help was expected from the ministries in policing the German people and supplying them with food and shelter, however, even if they should be purged of Nazi members.

The Reims informant said the ministries were wholly out of touch with the rest of Germany.

Indications were that the German people will be left to feed themselves. Seventy ships a month will be required to feed allied occupation troops alone, and none can be spared for the civilian population.

Anticipating a famine, most German families already were cultivating a German version of victory gardens. Little plots of land throughout the country have been transplanted into truck gardens.

High-ranking Allied officials were convinced that Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz was selected to succeed Adolf Hitler as fuhrer because he was believed best fitted to obtain peace for Germany.

They also were inclined to accept the statement of Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering that Doenitz was not selected by Hitler, but rather appointed at a hastily-called conference of Nazi bigwigs.

MRS. BARBARA GREENE DIES AT HOME OF SON

Mrs. Barbara Ann Greene, 92, died Wednesday at 2 a. m. at the home of her son Royal B. Greene, Wayne township. She was a life long resident of Champaign county coming to the home of her son less than a year ago. Her parents were Andrew and Catharine Hees Ropp.

Besides her son she is survived by a daughter Mrs. Alverna Cushman, Woodstock, near Urbana and 17 grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements which are under the direction of the Deffenbaugh funeral home are incomplete.

CONCERT SCHEDULED

LONDON, May 16—Berlin's famed philharmonic orchestra will give a concert May 20, Radio Moscow said today, quoting a war correspondent's report on a revival of the arts in the wrecked Reich capital.

Alexander Chalkov, smelter at the Stalin Kuznetsk steel works, smelted 5,000 tons of steel above his quota during 1944 for a total wartime smelted production equal to 2,250 tanks.

GRANGE PLANS ANNIVERSARY MEETING JUNE 5

Plans were made for the 25th anniversary of Saltcreek Valley Grange, at the meeting Tuesday night. It will be observed on Tuesday, June 5th, at 7 p. m. A covered dish supper will precede the meeting, and all members are asked to bring their own table service.

Joseph W. Fichter, state master, will speak at this meeting, also a program will be presented by the Grange. All other granges are invited and the members of Saltcreek Valley grange are each asked to bring a guest.

It was decided at the meeting to make cookies for the patients in Lockbourne hospital, on June 15.

A dress contest, made from feed bags, a project in the home economics division of the grange was held. Miss Helen Cryder, acted as judge and Mrs. Ida Strous, was awarded first prize; Mrs. Donald Beougher, second; Mrs. Floyd Shride, third. A style show was given after the awards were presented.

There were about 35 present at the meeting conducted by Judson Beougher, master. Lunch was served.

FARM MACHINES URGED BY JONES

will be encouraged to plant more acreage, Jones said. WPA could give this assurance by granting an AA-1 priority for machinery production, he added.

Jones said the same situation existed for food processing plants.

"What is the good of producing food if there are no facilities available for canning or preserving it?" he asked.

Meantime other WFA officials predicted that the 12-month period beginning July 1 will be the biggest year of farm machinery production in history. If the tentative program is carried out, production is expected to rise 25 to 30 per cent above 1944-45.

For the first time since Pearl Harbor manufacturers have been asked to estimate how much allocated material they will need. For three years they have been restricted to less than their pre-war output.

GERMANS QUIT LAND FIGHTING; 50 SUBS TAKEN

ported succinctly in what may be its last communique of the European war:

"The rounding-up of captured German officers and men on all fronts has been concluded."

Moscow later presumably will announce the total number of prisoners taken by Red armies during the war. An announcement yesterday placed the number rounded up since Germany's surrender alone at 1,230,000.

A Copenhagen dispatch said Russian reinforcements of troops and material, including artillery, continued to arrive at the Danish island of Bornholm in the Baltic though almost all German soldiers and most civilians had left.

The Russians placed an honor guard around the residence of the Danish governor, P. C. Steman, the dispatch said. Steman has been recalled to Copenhagen to report, but a plane sent to the island for his yesterday has not returned.

Russia has given assurances to Denmark that she does not intend permanently to occupy Bornholm.

The British admiralty and air ministry announced in a joint statement that their forces had sunk, probably sunk or captured 81 midge German submarines in the English channel in the closing months of the war.

An additional 28 possibly were sunk and 70 attacked with unsuccessful results. Since Germany's surrender, another 100 of the midges have been captured.

FRANK SMITH DIES AFTER 13 YEARS IN PRISON

TIGHT PANTS REVEALS FRAUD

T-Men Collect $185,000 From Manufacturer Of Sailors' Trousers

WASHINGTON, May 16—A little matter of some tight pants led Uncle Sam's T-men—income tax agents—to the discovery of a $185,000 tax evasion in their drive to catch up with wartime tax evaders.

The evader was a manufacturer. His company "stretched" its priority rights too far.

It had a government contract to make work pants for the Navy. The material it used came to it on a high government priority. But the manufacturer decided he could make a little something extra so he stretched the material and turned out about 3,000 extra pairs of pants, which he sold to civilians.

The trouble—and the treasury—came in when some very unhappy sailors appeared in the picture. Seems their pants, made with too little material, were tighter than usual and looked like shorts when they got wet.

So much for the unhappy sailors. Other tax evaders were caught because they had so much money they didn't know what to do with it.

One woman left her purse, containing $25,000, on a street car.

A hospital patient liked money so well he slept with it. His nurse was amazed to find him one day with $80,000 in bank notes spread out on his bed.

Discovery of the purse led to evidence that the woman's husband had reported only $3,000 of income for the last several years. The hospital case led to destruction of a liquor black market. The patient faces tax evasion and other charges.

Such are the leads that are enabling more than 1,200 special treasury agents to uncover millions in wartime tax evasions. It's the biggest tax drive in history and many names have already been turned over to the justice department.

Treasury agents said the drive already had one good effect. It has scared many spenders into paying up. In Miami $50,000 in excise taxes was paid when word got around that the T-men were working in that and other vacation spots.

JUDGE WITH A HEART

THERE are many interesting variations of chivalry in these hectic days. Here is a current case from Ohio involving military romance.

A sergeant home on a visit to his girl happened to be a little slow in starting back to camp, what with VE Day, the radio excitement on May 7 and all, and his girl volunteered to drive him in her car. He had to report in the evening. Because of the late start they had to drive fast if they were to make it. So a traffic cop caught them and wrote a summons for the girl.

What to do? The sergeant was equal to the occasion. He wired his commanding officer of the fix he was in and secured permission to stay and defend his girl. The couple appeared in court, on VE Day, and His Honor asked how come? The 58 miles an hour looked bad. But the soldier addressed His Honor like this:

"I won a victory in North Africa, and now I want to win a victory for my girl on VE Day."

What could any human judge do? He asked the couple when they planned to get married. In June, they replied. So His Honor said: "Boy, you've done fighting enough; you needn't do any more in this court. Case nolleed."

But it wouldn't be well for other lads and lasses to presume on this. VE Day is different from Christmas. It doesn't even come once a year.

PROSECUTORS

SUPREME Court Justice Robert H. Jackson is the United States choice to prosecute war criminals. This lawyer from Jamestown, N. Y., has come far in the last nine years. Assistant Attorney-General, Solicitor-General, Attorney-General and Supreme Court Justice since 1941, Justice Jackson has now a remarkable opportunity for fame.

Prosecutors have often found their assignment politically helpful. It has produced governors of many states, and in Gov. Dewey's case it made him a presidential nominee. Supreme court judges are not supposed to have political ambitions. If Justice Jackson still retains any, a triumphal prosecution of leading Nazis would prove no drawback in vote-getting.

KEEPING THE PEACE

IF Americans are going to be touchy about every Russian, Chinese or other move which seems superficially and at first glance not exactly what we should like, there will be no peace worthy of the name. Peace calls for wisdom and tolerance, for understanding of what the other fellow has been through, and why, therefore, he is worried about what Uncle Sam may do. Above all, it calls for giving the other fellow his fair chance to prove his clear motive.

Peace calls for understanding our own power. Uncle Sam should not act like a man "clothed in a little brief authority." He should be the wise, strong man, conscious of his power, who uses it gently, lest

WASHINGTON Report

Columnist Writes a Letter
To OPA About Margarine

Some Thoughts Regarding
The Killing of Mussolini

By HELEN ESSARY
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON—Dear OPA:
Not that the complaint is too important, but I could bear up better under the vicissitudes of getting enough to eat if the margarine were less white. Lately my margarine hasn't come with coloring matter. There is something so dispiriting about a slab of flat pallid substance on what used to be your bread and butter plate. I do not like my margarine to have a cold cream personality. Why, dear OPA, don't you save a little of the deep yellow coloring which is used to make green oranges appear ripe and doctor up the butter substitutes? This reminds me, there has never been any rationing of orange paint! I mean paint for oranges. How come?—H. E.

NOW TO SOMETHING SERIOUS! To a thought that continues to run through my mind. I keep wondering if the post-war world will be swept by a witch-burning wave. I am about convinced of this possibility since the lynching of Mussolini and his mistress, Claretta Petacci. The killing of the man who once was Italy's idol, however evil he had become, and of the woman on whom he had openly squandered his countrymen's money, was evidence of the disgust of thousands of Italians.

Also it was evidence of more than lawlessness and utter mob

UP AND DOWN BROADWAY

By JACK GAVER
(Subbing for Mallon)

NEW YORK, May 16—There is one fellow in town to whom the horror pictures from the German concentration camp at Buchenwald did not come exactly as news. He was there.

It is true that Hermann Leopoldi got away from Buchenwald several years ago, possibly before the worst, but his memories are vivid and bad enough. He remembers the 16 hours a day of labor demanded of the inmates and the daily menu of watery vegetables, bread and ersatz coffee.

Leopoldi, popular Viennese composer and actor, went to the Dachau and Buchenwald camps after the Austrian Anschluss and was a prisoner 11 months before friends were able to "spring" him and arrange for him to come to the United States. He came here with nothing and has relied on his piano playing and composing talents to create a new life for himself.

The composer works now in a cafe on upper Broadway, the Golden Fiddle, where he presides at a grand piano, his round face alternately beaming or pensive, as he knocks out medleys of his own compositions, some gay, some nostalgic—all of them typically Viennese.

He composed a prisoners' march called "The Song of Buchenwald" which became the official camp song. He likes to tell the story that illustrates the difference in singing style between Germans and Viennese. The Germans have a staccato style while the Viennese hold their notes. One day a high Nazi called and the prisoners lined up for inspection and sang their song. When the rest had finished there was still one voice trailing along with the final words.

"What—is it who sings this way?" the Nazi visitor demanded.

"It is the composer," he was informed.

The twin boon of unlimited lighting and curfew lighting came at the most propitious time for the hotels that go in for roof garden night spots in the spring and summer. The St. Regis and Waldorf Astoria roofs have been open for several days and the Astor started the season last night by introducing Sammy Kaye and his orchestra.

These roof clubs are all under roofs and not out in the open as some might imagine, but the Astor has a cocktail adjunct that operates until nightfall which is right out in the open and practically hanging over Times Square. This is the first season this outdoor spot has been open since the United States entered the war.

Aaron Copland's musical composition, "Appalachian Spring," which won the Pulitzer prize a week ago, got its first New York airing in Martha Graham's dance recital. . . Comic Willie Howard has finished a book—about show business, naturally—and is now looking for a publisher. "Forty Years of Laughter" is its title. . . "The Deep Mrs. Sykes," which never caught the popular fancy, will close Saturday night after 72 performances. . . The lifting of the curfew enabled the Copacabana to go back to its policy of a big-name entertainer, Comedian George Price was added to the show. . . The biggest draw in town is that model airplane car.

he injure a smaller living thing, generously, as becomes his abundance of resources and justly for the building of better conditions for all humanity.

rule. It proved that the everyday people were so fed up with the degradation symbolized by Mussolini and his kind that they had to wipe it out with insane hate.

Here is no new evil in which humanity may engage. According to the law of averages the pendulum must swing back to decency. But meanwhile outbreaks of hysteria may be expected.

The pendulum swung back before in Italy when Savanarola cleaned up some of the national filth. Once upon a time the people of England, France and Russia sickened of monarchs, and lopped off assorted heads.

Perhaps again the tide of anguished disgust with things as they have been will find the world seeking out goodness—and even a reckless dash of old-time virtue.

I TALKED TO AN ITALIAN GENTLEMAN about the killing of Mussolini. He expressed revulsion at the behavior of some of his countrymen. He said it must be remembered that Mussolini had once been supported by millions of Italians. This, of course, was in the early days of Il Duce. Mussolini then appeared to have a sincere wish to help his countrymen. And did help.

Later he became a victim of his own intolerable vanity. He believed himself to be a great lover and thought he was a genius at statecraft, as well. Such a combination of talent is rare indeed.

Being a dictator like Mussolini requires control of the mob, said the mind of the people who make up the mob. A woman is to be controlled—sharply (I quote a Latin friend; not my own convictions). The aging Mussolini did not rule his people nor his women. Claretta Petacci was influenced by her brother and by many men who managed, through her, to get favors from Mussolini.

This situation the Italian people knew and brooded upon. It finally drove them to a vengeful frenzy against Signora Petacci and Mussolini that will long be a dark stain on Italian history. It will take many a poetic opera and many a glowing canvas and statue to wipe it from the memory of the world.

Walking After an Operation

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

JUST how soon after an operation should a patient be allowed to get up and walk?

Of course, the answer will depend on the type of operation and the way in which the wounds are sutured or sewed. But, according to Doctor James W. Nixon of Texas, investigations have shown that early walking after many operations is not only safe but desirable. He thinks that wounds should be sewed with wire, because sewing with wire does not irritate the tissues to as great an extent as do other types of sewing, and allows more rapid healing of wounds, even though the wire is not absorbed as are catgut sutures.

Doctor Nixon has studied almost a thousand patients on whom this type of technique was employed, and has found that it is possible for these patients to resume their normal physical activities much sooner when walking is permitted early after operations. Furthermore, there were fewer cases of collapse of the lung, pneumonia and other lung complications, and fewer disturbances of the circulation. Allowing the patients to get up to go to the bathroom also eliminates some discomfort and assists in preventing distention or swelling of the abdomen and bowel.

When patients know that they can return to normal activity at an early time they are much more likely to enter the hospital with a higher morale. Wound healing is actually speeded up by the physical activity since improvement in the circulation definitely makes wounds heal up faster.

Another factor is that hospital expenses are lessened by the shorter stay and early return to work. In these times, when such a great demand is placed on hospital facilities and nursing care, shortening of the stay in the hospital is indeed especially worthwhile.

In general, Doctor Nixon allowed his patients to be up on the first day after operation if they so desired. However, most of the patients during this period did not feel inclined to get out of bed.

On the second day, they were allowed to sit up in bed or in a chair if they wished. On the third day, the patients were urged to get out of bed to go to the bathroom. They were able to leave the hospital at the end of the fourth day after operation in most instances. By the tenth or twelfth day the patients were walking about in the usual way.

It would appear that the method used by Doctor Nixon is not only safe, but also desirable. In some operations, of course, it cannot be permitted, such as when there is a drain in the wound, when the patient has fever, severe anemia or lessening of the coloring in the blood, hemorrhage or peritonitis, that is, inflammation of the lining membrane of the abdomen.

However, in those operations in which no complications exist, this new method may be carried out.

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT

"I've been figuring this out," Burke said. "My commission is coming through, and I'll probably be called up very soon. I thought we might get married, quietly, without fuss—the day I leave."

Gail was ashamed of herself for thinking, "He's arranged it very cleverly, so he won't be here to take the brunt of his mother's anger."

"What do you say, Gail?" "I suppose it's the most sensible thing to do," she agreed slowly.

"Although it's not very—conventional," Gail meant romantic, but Burke would laugh incredulously, she knew, if she said that. "These are not conventional times, Gail," Burke replied. "And it's the perfect solution for breaking the news to mother. She won't have a chance to stop us. And by the time the war's over, she'll be used to the idea. As a matter of fact," he added, "she'll be crazy about you, when she gets to know you."

"I doubt it, but go on." "You have your own home now, of course, and your work to keep you busy. After the war, we'll build a place on Hillcrest Road. You can sell your house then."

"And my practice too?" He deposited a kiss on her warm lips. "Let's not discuss it now," he said firmly. "It's too far in the future."

In the future, he counted on persuading her to retire from practice. In the future, she counted on convincing him that she must carry on. Which one of them would win out? This conversation had taken place a week ago—and Gail still wasn't sure.

The telephone rang; it was Stephen McCormick. "I hope you need an assistant on your early evening rounds," he said. "One who'll take you to dinner afterwards."

"I'm sorry, Steve. I've got a date."

"With the best man, I suppose?" "Do I detect a sour note?"

"You do. Every time I've called you this week, you've been busy."

"My patients always need help."

"Okay, then just give me Number Two boy a ring whenever you want him. He'll be waiting."

Despite his bantering tone, Gail knew he was hurt. Though she enjoyed being with him, she had resolutely tapered off their dates to gether.

Gail went into the kitchen and prepared a salad and sandwiches. Burke was late, and when the phone called again, she knew it would be his. He couldn't come over.

"Why not?" she said.

"Mother doesn't feel well." His voice was so formal that she suspected Mrs. Gentry was listening.

"You mean, she's sick?" "Well, she's had a bad afternoon. Her maid wanted to ring me at the office, but she wouldn't allow it. She's in bed now, but I hate to walk out—I mean—don't you think I'd better stick around?"

"Of course," she said, and added mechanically, "You might give her some hot milk."

"You don't mind, sweet?" He sounded relieved.

"Of course I mind," she said, "but I'll make the best of it."

She put the sandwiches and salad greens in the icebox and went into her bedroom. There were some medical journals she should read. There were bills she could pay—the check for the next payment on the mortgage was due. But she was in no mood for such good, innocuous deeds. She went to the telephone and dialed a number.

"Is the Number Two boy still around?"

"You bet he is!" Steve McCormick boomed.

"It's only fair to tell you the truth. Burke isn't showing up. And the idea of being alone this evening doesn't appeal to me."

"I'll be there in a flash," he promised. And he did arrive in record time.

"I'm so glad to be here—" Steve assured her. "What shall we do?"

"Well—" she was almost shy, "you know what I'd like to do? Visit the Amusement Park—it's still open. I'd like hot dogs and cold beer for supper, frozen custard and popcorn. And I want to ride The Whip—whether I get sick or not!"

"Good—" Steve said. "And if there is anything left of us, do you mind if we stop by the USO hall later? They're giving a party to-night."

The Amusement Park was almost deserted, but that didn't keep them from having a good time. Finally, they drifted to a bench overlooking the river. They sat close together, for it was chilly now. The stars were brilliant.

Gail looked ahead in the darkness, soberly. "Have you heard about your commission? I mean, are you going to be called soon?"

"Yes, I'll be leaving as soon as father's done the major operation on my shoulder." He'd already undergone the first operation, a minor one that kept him in the hospital only a few days.

"I'll miss you," she said simply.

"I'll miss you," she said simply.

"I'll miss you," she said simply.

"I'll miss you," she said simply.

"I'll miss you," she said simply.

"I'll miss you," she said simply.

"I'll miss you," she said simply.

"I'd rather hoped you would, Doctor Benton."

"I didn't mean that for a come-on, Steve. But . . . I'm going to marry Burke soon."

He was silent a moment. "You're sure, Gail?"

"Yes."

"What do you love in him?" Stephen said calmly.

"What do I love in him? Why, Steve, you can't discuss that so—so impersonally."

"Gail—" he touched her face gently, cupped her chin in the palm of his left hand. "You sound so painfully young. You aren't trying to live up to an adolescent dream, are you?"

Suddenly she was frightened. She felt as defenseless as many of the girls who came to her, troubled and insecure, at the clinic.

"Let's not talk about me, Steve," Gail said. "Let's talk about you. Do you think you'll come back to Beachcamp after the war?"

"I haven't given it much thought," he said shortly. "But it would be darned nice to have roots in a good, middle-sized American town."

Steve stood up. "It must be getting late. We'd better push on to the USO dance."

It was as if he'd shut her out of his life, and Gail felt inexplicably hurt.

The hall was a sea of olive drab uniforms and bright dresses. The dance floor was crowded, and so was the refreshment bar in the alcove.

Gail said, "There's my cousin Lucienne."

Lucienne was talking with two privates. "Hi, Gail—" she called as they approached her and held out her sturdy little hand, so the diamond on her finger sparkled in the light. "Wish me luck, darling."

Gail pushed the girl's hair out of her eye and off her cheek. "I need I do, my dear."

Stephen McCormick added his good wishes, then excused himself. "There's some one I want to see," he explained.

Gail sat down, but not for long. A soldier spied her, and then another, and a third. "If this had happened to me ten years ago," she confided to a rosy-cheeked sergeant, "I'd have lost my head and considered myself a belle for a lifetime!"

"I don't see how you could go wrong, miss," he assured her gravely.

She had one dance with Stephen. The rest were devoted to the stag-line in khaki. "I'll never show up at the clinic tomorrow," she moaned at midnight. "My feet are danced off!"

December, 1877, just 17 months before her death at the age of 90 years. Her real contribution lies in the fact that having the soul of a modern she employed Victorianism as a link between the indifference of the 18th century that regarded women as a highly prized chattel and the 19th century's dream of women's destiny economic and moral freedom.

Mrs. Johnson told her audience that the publications of a hundred years or more ago betray first of all that in those days though we had won political freedom from the British we had not acquired cultural self confidence. To assist in the education of the young ladies of the time there were endless manuals on behavior published, but most important of all a magazine entitled Godey's Lady's Book. The book was edited by Mrs. Sarah J. Hale, and Louis A.
Godey.

This magazine more than any of the others reflected the modes and manners, the life of the American home from the Jacksonian era through the Civil war and on through until 1898. In an editorial in June, 1870 at the close of its fortieth year of publication, Mr.
Godey boasts that he had given to the public eighty volumes containing 40,000 pages, 1000 steel plates and wood cuts innumerable.

Sarah Josepha Hale the editor of Godey's was the first woman to edit an American Magazine and is credited with having more influence over the women of this country than any other woman of the 19th century. She gave them recipes for cooking and made the housewife a dignified person. She gave them poetry and philosophy for their souls and advice for their husbands and the children. She influenced Abraham Lincoln to set aside an annual day for Thanksgiving. She restored Bunker Hill Monument by helping to sponsor a $30,000 fund and rescued Mt.
Vernon from oblivion.

Just before the Civil War there were 150,000 subscribers. The fashion plates were the most popular features. In 1830 when first introduced there were but four prints a year. The history of America may be seen in the fashion plates. As the country became more prosperous the fashions became more elegant.

Godey's magazine contained contributions from such writers as Poe, Emerson, Longfellow and Holmes and paid liberally for such original material. For the musically minded there was a double page of black notes. There were also pages of fiction for light reading and a work department which gave attention to the domestic as well as a health department.

The last editorial published by Mrs. Hale was in her edition of

Mothers Entertained

Approximately 75 mothers, daughters and some friends were present at the social rooms of the High school Tuesday evening when the Senior girls reserve entertained with their annual Mothers-Daughters party.

A color scheme of pink and white the club colors was carried out in the decorations and the reserve emblem. The program consisted of prayer by Hilda Rhoads followed by a welcome to the mothers by Anne Moeller, president of the club. Mrs. Moeller responded. Mary K. Morgan sang a solo "Mother" and each mother present was introduced. Gloria Holbrook read a poem and the "Barbershop Quartet" consisting of Phyllis Clark, Barbara Green, Dona Jean Howell and Emily Lutz entertained with selections.

Awards were presented to Norma Raub, Mary Lou Crum and Emily Lutz. Gifts were given to Miss Elma Rains, advisor of the club and Ann Moeller retiring president.

New officers installed were Emily Lutz, president; Ann Curtin, vice-president; Mary Katherine Morgan, secretary; Leah Jean Masson, treasurer.

Refreshments were served at the close of the program from a beautifully decorated table. Mrs. Paul Brown, Junior Girl reserve advisor was a guest of the club.

Circle One Meets

Circle One of Women's Society afternoon at the home of Mrs. Emmitt Barnhart, Northridge road.

Mrs. Harold Pontius, chairman, conducted the meeting which was opened by the group singing.
America. Mrs. Vaden Couch as pianist; Mrs. L. S. Lytle conducted the Worship service which was closed by the group repeating the Lord's Prayer. Readings were given by Mrs. Charles Fuller; Mrs.
Vaden Couch, Mrs. Harold Pontius and Mrs. Hal Dean.

A flower contest was conducted and refreshments were served by Mrs. Barnhart, Mrs. Dean and Mrs. Raymond Rader.

The next meeting will be a picnic at the home of Miss Mattie Gearhart, North Court street.

Banquet Postponed

The Junior Girl Reserve Mother-

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE BILL SLATED FOR HOUSE ACTION

COLUMBUS, May 16 — The much belated Christian Science bill which probably has been the subject of more legislative mail this session than any other single measure comes before the House of Representatives for action today.

Meanwhile the Senate will take up the bill to adopt the Massachusetts ballot in Ohio. The bill was supposed to have been a companion piece to the defunct Walcutt bill to set up a pre-primary system of selecting political candidates.

Two Emergency Ordinances Passed At City Council Meeting.

HOSPITAL FUNDS AFFECTED IN BOTH MEASURES

City Offered Alley In South End; Railroad 'Nuisances' Discussed At Session

Two emergency ordinances were passed by Circleville city council Tuesday evening.

The first ordinance transferred $800 from the general fund into the Berger hospital fund for the purchase of supplies. The second ordinance also affecting the hospital was to repeal the old ordinance that allowed nurses who did not reside at the hospital an additional $10 a month to be added to their salaries for room rent.

The new ordinance passed to replace it establishes the wage scale without a room rent clause. Salaries are now $125 a month for nurses who live at the hospital and $140 a month for those who live outside of the hospital. An additional $5 a month is still to be paid to nurses after one year service at the hospital. An additional $5 a month is also to be paid to registered nurses on night duty.

The ordinance affecting the wages of nurses was passed to avoid any difficulty that might ever occur through the Federal government on the withholding taxes. Nurses who were paid the extra $15 a month for outside room rent were not being charged with either the income tax or the social security tax on the additional amount even though it was compensation paid for hire.

Joseph W. Adkins told the city council that the matter of Police Chief W. F. McCrady's claim against the city for back wages prior to 1936 was an obligation of the city's. But he was not sure that the obligation could be paid the chief legally. The council passed a resolution that Mr. Adkins secure written authorization from the state examiners and the state attorney general's office before the matter be returned to the council from the committee.

A. V. Osborn, agent of the N. and W. railroad stated in a letter to the safety committee that the N. and W. was investigating the complaint of the city that their trains were making too much noise with their whistles in the corporation limits.

The committee on garbage disposal plans reported that the Junior Chamber of Commerce had not finished with the solicitation program in the city. They said they expected the report would be ready by the time of the next meeting.

Nelson Baker proposed to the council that he would donate an alley, in the south section of town, connecting Third avenue and Washington street. He also wished to sell to the city a street near Third street from Pickaway to Washington streets. The entire proposal was referred to the service committee for investigation and report. Council President John Goeller said that it was not the custom of the city to buy streets. The past procedure had always been that the deedholder dedicate the street to the city and that the city would maintain it after they had received title to the property.

George Crites suggested that the city police cars be painted a distinguishing color so that they might be identified as police department vehicles. Mayor Ben H. Gordon said that they would be painted with identifying signs.

Service committee reports were made by George Crites on the state's refusal to resurface Court street and the states offer to provide a bridge at the north end of Scioto street into Ted Lewis park. The only possibility of any state resurfacing of Court street would be for the city to make an offer to the state on what they would be willing to do to assist the highway department and what the city would be willing to spend for resurfacing Court street from Pleasant street to the northern city limits. It was suggested that this would not be the best play for the city. The city would be better off to make their request so that the state highway department would include it in their post-war plans when they have access to more federal money than they now have.

Mr. Adkins said that the suit of the city of Circleville against the

APRIL RELIEF COSTS LOWEST IN MANY YEARS

Relief costs to Circleville for the month of April were the lowest they have been in years. Councilman George Crites told city council Tuesday night at the reading of the financial reports. Total costs for April relief were $1,204.10 in the county. The city's cost was $235.65.

Berger hospital collections from January 1 to May 16 this year were $15,793.12. Expenses for the same period were $16,205.36. For the first four months of 1945 the hospital operated at a deficit of only $412.14.

Tax disbursements from the county auditor were received last week. The total amount of money that Circleville received was $21,954.38 from which sum of $498.45 was deducted for election expenses, $887.02 examiners fees and $1,253.11 for workman's compensation. The net amount of money received by the city was $19,315.80. The city also had deducted $6,275.63 for the retirement of bonds. This sum came out of a different account and could not be charged to the general fund.

The council finance committee said that the costs of the examiners was outrageous. The examiners spent six weeks in Circleville which was too long for what they accomplished. Most of the time was spent looking for one dollar which they never found.

Balances in the city treasury as of May 16 are: general fund $18,350.35; sewage disposal fund, $11,913.85; library fund, $2,338.65; street repair fund $9,605.54; gasoline tax, $1,278.60; Berger hospital fund $5,899.91.

Ohio Water Service company will come to trial June 4. The city has agreed with the water company on the inventory of their physical properties. Mr. Adkins said that he would go to Chicago this week-end to make final preparations.

On the complaint of Councilman Boyd Horn council instructed Mr. Adkins to write to the Pennsylvania railroad and inform them that their trains were violating a city ordinance by blocking the railway crossings in the south end of the city.

ASHVILLE

The Ashville-Lockbourne Lutheran Brotherhood will meet in the Ashville church tonight at 8:00 with a committee headed by E. L. Runkle in charge.

A. W. Graham, N. & W. signal maintainer, is ill at his home on Powell street.

Ashville entered the finals of the Pickaway county soft ball tournament by defeating New Holland Tuesday 5-1 at Ted Lewis Park. The game was featured by the two-hit pitching of Bill Speakman and some effective hitting by the local boys.

The Freshman class held its final party of the school year in the school auditorium Tuesday evening.

Sgt. Francis R. Reid of Brownsville, Texas is visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Malone and family.

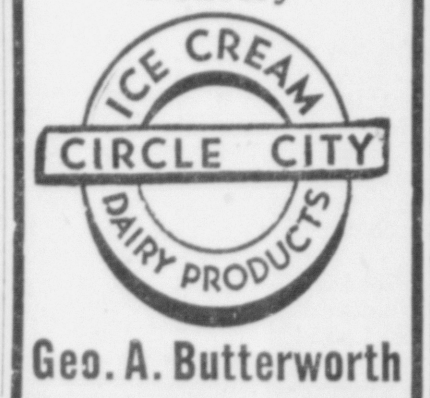

Meetings for parents interested in organizing a Cub Pack for boys aged 9 through 11 will be held at the Ashville school on May 17, May 24, and May 31. The Cub Pack prepares boys for membership in the Boy Scouts and also provides for supervised play.

Pfc. William Myers under date of May 3, wrote that the European war was about over, thus proving himself an able prophet. While he has not seen any Ashville boys in that area, William has received letters from other local boys who are in the European theater.

40 GERMAN SUBMARINES SURRENDER TO ALLIES

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., May 16 Three German submarines surrendered to U. S. naval units off the New England coast today, the Navy disclosed, bringing to at least 40 the number surrendered to the allies on both sides of the Atlantic. Another 100 were seized in bases along the French and Norwegian coasts.

Another 15 to 25 known to be in the Atlantic on V-E day still were at large.

In 1944 Chicago led the nation's markets with receipts of 927,339 tons of meat animals by truck. Omaha was second with 889,877 tons and St. Louis followed with 767,079 tons.

PRIZES AWARDED AT NEBRASKA GRANGE MEETING

Mrs. Robert Barr won first place in the house dress contest at the Nebraska Grange meeting Tuesday evening. Mrs. Wilbur Riegel won second place in the contest. It was judged by Miss Beatrice Cleveland. The winning dresses will be entered in the county contest in the Fall.

Joseph Peters, Grange master, presented Roy Plum, grange business agent, provided a questionnaire to the members on what their requirements would be for electrical equipment in the post war period.

Mrs. Lewis Quillen and Mrs. Homer Reber, the home economics committee, offered a program on nutrition. They explained about the foods that should be eaten and how meals should be prepared and planned from the "basic seven" foods to give sufficient energy for both work and play.

Elaine Quillen presented a recitation "The Milky Way". Mrs. Wayne Hines followed with a reading entitled "The Perfect Dinner Table".

Three films were shown to the members by C. D. Bennett assisted by Wayne Jones. Two of the films were on the subject of health and happiness, the third film was on India.

Mrs. Quillen reported that the 13 dozen cookies donated by the grange had been sent to the Lockbourne Army Air Base hospital soldiers.

CIRCLEVILLE MAN FELT LIKE SWOLLEN BALLOON; FULL OF STOMACH GAS

Recently, a Circleville man stated that he used to feel like a swollen balloon after every meal. He would bloat full of gas and spit up acidulous liquids for hours after eating. Was terribly constipated. This man is one of the hundreds in this vicinity who now praise ERB-HELP. He states he was amazed at the results when he took this medicine. Now he eats what he wants without gas or bloating, and bowels are regular for the first time in years. He feels like a new man.

ERB-HELP contains 12 Great Herbs; they cleanse bowels, clear gas from stomach, act on sluggish liver and kidneys. Miserable people soon feel different all over. So don't go on suffering! Get ERB-HELP! Sold by all Drug Stores in Circleville.

rier in the sunken plaza at Rockefeller Center which can be inspected from top to bottom by all who purchase $25 war bonds. . . One of the city's most beautiful night spectacles is visible again for the first time since May 18, 1942. The cable lights are up again on the graceful George Washington bridge across the Hudson.

Never a dull moment for the night clubs. The curfew was no sooner lifted than the city dusted some of its old night club rules and passed the word along that they were going to be rigidly enforced, especially as pertains to the fingerprinting of anyone remotely connected with ownership of a club. Fingerprinting of operators and employees long has been a standard practice.

The police department also ruled that palmists, numerologists, character readers and anyone falling into the general category of "fortune teller" no longer could work in night clubs. Several of the better clubs have had such people for a long time. Some of them work at the customers' tables, others have their own nook where the customers visit them.

A check showed that several of the "fortune tellers" were still operating because they had not yet received official notice to get out. Such notice is expected in a day or two, however. Others in the business deemed it the better part of valor to depart gracefully before being notified and wait to see what would happen. It may be that the new cafe organization, the Allied Food and Entertainment Industries of New York, will go to bat on the issue at city hall, but no definite decision has been reached.
